

Jokke Schreurs is one of the top guitarists in Belgium. He has a degree in psychology but his love for Django Reinhardt drove him to a life in music.

He has played with countless bands (jazz, but also anything else he fancies) as well as providing music for theatre productions and television series. He has released two solo CDs and also recordings with his Trio Perdu and the Jokke Schreurs Trio.

You can hear him on a big concert stage one night and the next possibly in a small Antwerp café, not only playing guitar but also singing a selection of the hundreds of songs he knows from memory.
